

goodnews

From: ronilinda@aol.com [mailto:ronilinda@aol.com]

Sent: Monday, October 26, 2009 8:44 AM

To: Customer Comments

Subject: about the gold wing ambassadors

It had been a long journey from Los Angeles. I finally arrived at the Winnipeg airport and the people who were supposed to pick me up weren't there. Andrew, one of the wonderful people in the golden jackets, saw my confusion and distress and came over immediately. He didn't leave me until we had formulated a plan. When that plan didn't work, I was approached by Lucille, another wonderful ambassador, who actually went to another location, found the people who were supposed to get me, and steered them in my direction.

I am in Winnipeg to give the keynote address at the Guardian Angels event (an organization that raises money for women's cancers-- research, treatment, and aid). I would have to say that Andrew and Lucille were my guardian angels yesterday. Thank you for this wonderful service.

Sincerely

Ronnie Kaye

